WALSH TOURS,

Tenderloin Captain's All Night Inspection Results in Closing of Savoy and Berlin.

BARRED BY GAMBLERS.

Working on the Quiet, He Says He Has Put Men Through Gamblers' Guards to Gather Evidence.

The Savoy and the Berlin, two of the grinking parlors in Twenty-ninth street, off Broadway, closed up suddenly during the night when the tip went around that Capt. Richard Walsh, the new Commander of the Tenderloin, was out on an all night tour of inspection.

Capt. Walsh smiled grimly when he maw the closed doors of the drinking places. "We used to get rabbits in a hole and then smoke 'em out," he said. That's what we are going to do with these places—smoke 'em out."

With the Berlin, the Savoy and the Empire closed, the Bohemia, Cairo and Haymarket are the only open drinking derloin precinct.

Capt. Walsh's inspection tour, which did not end until daybreak, brought him to every gambling house and reputed dive in his district. He was accompanied by several of his plain clothes men. Entrance to the dives was easy and everything was orderly, as the tip had gone out that the Captain was looking things over.

At the gambling houses admission was refused, but several proprietors came to the wickets and told the Captain that if he would come around at vince him their places were orderly and respectable. The Captain gruffly pefused the invitations.

"What's the use," he said. "By the time I got inside, the whole place would Hendrick and ex-Justice Stanton.

"quiet" work consists in part in securing the admission of his men-strangers the gamblers-to the gambling-houses, where they may play and secure the needed evidence. Then, when all is in readiness, the raids will follow. Capt.
Walsh reiterates that he will drive every gambling establishment in the Tenderloin out of business. Early to-day he had a dozen plainmen visiting the pool-rooms. Some of the pool-rooms in the Tenderloin have a gambling-room annex and are open to the player at all hours.

What! Nothin' Was Doin'? Testerday a score of plain-clothes men hustled around the precinct in search of col-rooms. They found many which were not then doing business and so the plain-clothes caps reported. The Captain was congratulating nimest the had which was granted.

Soloman Roth, of No. 168 East Ninetyourth street, and Emanuel Daerenberg, of No. 164 East Ninety-fourth street, while returning home about midnight this morning saw a woman sitting on street apparently asleep. Her head was bowed, and Roth attempted to awaken her. She did not move. Then the two men tried to stand the woman on her feet and found that she was dead. They summoned an ambulance from the Presbyterian Hospital. Dr. Van Ingen pronounced the woman dead and gave the cause as heart disease. Up to an early hour this morning the woman had not been identified. In her hand she clutched a pocketbook, which contained 40 cents.
